

24.05.2016

International Human Rights Instruments (NHRI) and the Role of the National Human Rights Institutions

Article available in English here

Lire cet article en français ici

International Human Rights Instruments (NHRI) and the Role of the National Human Rights Institutions

The National Human Rights Institutions (NHRI) are the main bodies responsible for the promotion and protection of human rights at the national level. They are established by law and are independent of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government. The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.

The NHRI are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community. They are also responsible for monitoring the human rights situation in the country and for reporting on it to the international community.